FLAG ANCHOR BARREL

$3,980

c. 1900 • Tianjin, China • Stone • Collection #BJH091

H: 16.0″ Dia: 19.0″

This stone barrel-shaped table is an architectural fragment from the late Qing dynasty and was originally used to anchor a metal flagpole. Despite its functional origins, the anchor has a balanced, linear form and continues a long Chinese tradition of stone furniture, valued for its rich texture and inherent permanence. The round anchor sits beautifully as a low garden stool, side table, or pedestal.
