c. 1850 • Northern China, China • Northern Elmwood • Collection #KK147

W: 45.25" D: 2.75" H: 113.5"

A hallmark of Qing-dynasty domestic architecture, hand-carved lattice doors such as this one were used in provincial courtyard homes to allow light and air into a room while maintaining privacy. Graced with vertical brass pulls, two latticed doors are set within a frame, topped with a transom of geometric fretwork. Stately and stunning, this functional door is a statement wall-mounted sculpture, entrance way, or room divider.
