GREEN GLAZED JAR

$428

c. 1850 • Northern China, China • Terra Cotta • Collection #CBH105A

H: 8.0" Dia: 9.0"

Tracing its roots back into the Han dynasty, this early 20th-century vessel emulates the full-bodied shapes and unusual glazing found in ancient ceramics. Finely sculpted with thin walls, the jar has a squat, globular form that tapers from bulging shoulders to a narrow base. The cylindrical neck has an unglazed rim and is flanked by two small loop handles. The jar's balanced form is accentuated by a monochrome dark green glaze that lingers beautifully upon each imperfection.
