JAPANESE AGANO-STYLE SAKE BOTTLE

$468

c. 1900 • Japan • Ceramic • Collection #CVF021

H: 12.0" Dia: 8.5"

This unusual bottleneck jar is a late-Meiji era Japanese sake bottle, also known as tokkuri. Used to heat and serve sake, the ceramic bottle has a graceful, tapered form with wide shoulders and an elongated neck for conserving heat. A dark brown glaze coats the body and is met at the base of the neck by a white drip glaze, reminiscent of the black-and-white glazes of chosen-karatsu ware. A touch of turquoise decorates the lip and blends into the cream glaze, a finish seen prominently in agano ware. Continued...
