Chinese knotted tassels are used to add elegance to everyday items and bring good fortune wherever they're placed. Fine tassels hold sentimental value, and are often passed down through generations or gifted as a token of one's love.

This long tassel is hand-knotted of bright coral and light brown silk cord, and decorated with elaborate knots and a central striped jade disc. Draped from cabinet hardware or hanging from a handbag, we love these silk tassels as a way to spread good luck.
