BURMESE RED LACQUER TRAY

$180

c. 1900 • Burma • Bamboo, Lacquer • Collection #CMRC063A

H: 2.0" Dia: 9.0"

This round footed tray dates to the early 20th century and is a simple example of Burmese lacquerware. The tray is formed of thin bamboo strips that have been woven and coiled into shape, held in place with a putty of lacquer and sawdust, and finished with layer upon layer of glossy red and black lacquer. Possibly originating as one layer of a stacking box, this decorative tray lives on with timeless form and rich texture.

Minor losses to lacquer finish.
