Chinese knotted tassels are used to add elegance to everyday items and bring good fortune wherever they're placed. Fine tassels hold sentimental value, and are often passed down through generations or gifted as a token of one's love. This small tassel is hand-knotted of a pale pink silk thread and strung with a brown jade bead, carved with a stylized shou character for longevity. Draped from cabinet hardware or hanging from a handbag, we love these silk tassels as a way to spread good luck.
